Spouses of full-time (minimum of 9 hours per semester) students are encouraged to unofficially audit one master's level course per semester free of charge. This is a service of the Seminary to facilitate the growth and maturity of ministering families.

Unofficial audits are subject to the approval of the instructor and dependent on class size. Language courses may be taken provided: 1) the course is a review of a language study previously taken and 2) the student assumes the role of a silent observer.

AGTS faculty members request that those spouses of full-time students who elect to unofficially audit a class do so with genuine commitment. As part of this commitment, spouses are requested to attend all scheduled class meetings so that the class continuity can be maintained.
