Evangel University Mission Statement
Evangel University is a comprehensive Christian university committed to excellence in educating and equipping students to become Spirit-empowered servants of God who impact the Church and society globally.

Assemblies of God Theological Seminary Mission Statement
AGTS shapes servant leaders with knowledge, skill and passion to revitalize the church and evangelize the world in the power of the Spirit.

Catalog Description
A course to enable students to respond to theological issues encountered in intercultural contexts, such as Trinitarian concerns, bibliology, local theologies, syncretism and Pentecostalism. Students will work with personally relevant area-specific case studies and principles of “doing theology” in another context will be analyzed.

Course Prerequisites
Background Literature. These books are standard works on missiology that are particularly relevant to this course. Ideally, you should have already read this material before beginning doctoral studies. If there are any books you have not read on this list, review them and write a summary card for later reference. Even if you have already read these books, it would be good to review them and write a summary card as well. If you will follow this practice throughout your doctoral studies, you should be prepared for the qualifying exam at the end of the core courses.

Course Purpose
The purpose of this course is to assist the student to understand cross-cultural communication and be able to apply it to his or her cross-cultural environment.

Course Policies & Requirements

Preparation
In order to succeed in this class, students should arrange to have regular access to a computer, the internet, Evangel email and Course Commons. This class will use Course Commons for all course communication, interaction, content, announcements, collaboration, and assignments.

Students should read all the required textbooks. Those who have not read the background literature should also read it to prepare for the qualifying exam later in the program. To facilitate your review of this literature throughout your program, write a summary and or reflection of each book or article using any suitable software program.

These notes will prove to be crucial tools for you in reviewing for the qualifying exams, in which you will be required to show your mastery of missiological literature. Although you may write what you please on these cards, we recommend the following format:

- Bibliographic information (author, date, and title is enough)
- A summary of the book
- Significant quote(s) from the book which you might wish to cite in your research or on the qualifying or comprehensive exam.

You should periodically review these and have a good understanding of the content by the time of the qualifying exam.

Pre-Session
1. Read all the required textbooks and articles in the digital reader listed in this syllabus. Develop summaries for each book as you do for all class reading in preparation for your comprehensive exam. You will not turn in your book summaries but indicate to the professor before he issues a grade if you have done the reading and the summaries.

At the beginning of the class you will be required to report on how much of the reading you have accomplished and at what level of depth (i.e. skimming, reading every page, overview only, deep study taking detailed notes)

2. Based on the reading of Flemming, Ott, and Netland and Shaw/Burroughs write a 10 page critical reflection paper using these questions as the major headings for the paper.

- What specific reading(s) most impacted your life? Why? Provide some quotes of what you consider the most important or impacting citation(s) and describe why they are significant.
• What are the most significant missiological issues raised by the readings? Which are most germane to your ministry context? Why?
• How have the readings influenced your missions’ thinking or future ministry?
• What concepts, statements, or perspectives did you disagree with the most and why?
• What are specific applications you can make from your reading to actually do in your ministry setting? Contextualization literature often has a great deal of theory but offers the reader little in terms of concrete practices. In the final segment seek to articulate some principles gleaned from your readings and how they could be applied in real-life, preferably in your own ministry context.

3. Write a five-page paper on Flett’s Apostolicity where you seek to capture the core of his argument about the nature of apostolicity and what this means for the process of the Gospel advancing into new cultural settings.

4. Prepare for Day 1 a maximum of two pages of bullet points on the relationship between the Gospel and culture in the advance of the church into new settings from the folder on Walls and Sanneh in the Digital Reader. On a third page write how you think these authors might define contextualization if they were to use that term.

5. Prepare for the first day of class a digital copy of the latest version your Core 1 assignment on your dissertation topic. Students will be expected to regularly contribute to the class, collaborate with one another, and to “learn by doing.”

In-Session
You will be provided a digital workbook for the class and are to put all of the assigned daily work, reflections and answers to quizzes in that book.

1. Attend class and participate in discussions and learning activities.
2. For Day 2 from the Digital Reader folder Thinking about Contextualization bring a one page single spaced summary on the nature of contextualization and how it is done from the readings.
3. For Day 4 from the Digital Reader folder on Theology and World Christianity bring a one page single spaced reflection on what you feel are the core points made about what constitutes good theological reflection.
4. For Day 5 from the Digital Reader folder on Non-contextualization, Decontextualization bring a two page single spaced reflection on where you saw yourself from your own birth culture background and how you would like to change in the future.
5. Complete in-class quizzes as assigned.
6. Complete a final exam on the last day of class.
Post-Session
1. Write a 10-page book review of Wrogemann’s Intercultural Hermeneutics following the format below.

Part 1 - Introduction and Brief Overview
Put the bibliographic data on the top as the title or just under your title
Briefly overview the purpose of this book and what the author is trying to accomplish.
Provide a brief identification of the scope of the book (how much the author is trying to cover)

Part 2 - Description
Sketch out the major purpose and themes of the book article.
Describe the book’s contents – methods, assumptions, main thesis or theses, structure, and key statements or quotes.

Part 3 - Evaluation, Interpretation, Analysis, Critique
In this section interact critically with the material and/or give an analysis of it.

Evaluate the author’s method, thesis – purpose of data selected, validity of judgments expressed, relationship between evidence and conclusion (does the evidence logically support the conclusion?). What other specific evidence or information would have made this book stronger? What have other scholars commented on this book? (Are they right or wrong? Why?)

Summarize what specific things the book does well and explain why.
What does the book not do well? Explain why.

Part 4 - Personal Application
Here is where you talk about what you learned personally from the material. How does it apply to your life? Focus on two or three things that were very important to you and how you would use them.

2. Final Research paper: The Core 4 final paper should help you do reading and writing that is helpful to your thesis development in the area of the cultural context of your topic. Ideally the work on this paper will help you in one or more of your tutorials. The paper should be about 20-25 pages in length, excluding the bibliography. Follow the format below for the major components of your paper.

1. Introduction
The introduction is like a funnel. Present a real-life problem that is related to your research topic as it concerns some aspect of cultural or theological context. Then narrow down to pose a question about a particular aspect or dimension of that problem and pose a clear question that you will see to answer. Finally, clearly tell the reader what you are going to and then make sure that you actually do that in the paper

2. This is the body of the paper part I where you draw upon social science, theological, missiological and historical material as appropriate related to the specific aspect of the problem you are investigating. This can comprise multiple sections and you should use headings and subheadings and provide good signposts so the reader knows what you are doing.

3. This is the body of the paper part II is where you have a robust discussion of your findings in #2 and interact with class concepts and other scholars in order to answer the problem that you have posed in your introduction. Make sure that you present your view/answer to the question and evidence for why you hold your position.

4. Brief conclusion that recaps the paper and your conclusions.

Writing Style Guide
All formal papers are to be formatted according to the IDS Style Guide using the IDS templates located on Course Commons, DAIS Elements, Resources, and IDS Academic Writing Workshop class you will find on your Course Commons Dashboard.

Specific Data
Prepared by Alan R. Johnson, 18 Jan 2020
Academic Integrity

As participants in a Christian university, members of the broader academic community, and active professionals, it is incumbent upon every member of the Evangel community to employ and encourage integrity in all our academic and professional pursuits. Any and every instance of academic dishonesty compromises the mission of Evangel University and violates the standards we hold as people of Christ and practitioners within our professional fields. Students are expected to understand and avoid all forms of academic dishonesty, which includes falsification, cheating, collusion, and plagiarism.

As members of the Evangel community, students share the responsibility to deter and report academic dishonesty. Should a student become aware of a violation of academic integrity, he or she is encouraged to report the incident to a faculty member or department chairperson.

It is the responsibility of the faculty to address any and all acts of academic dishonesty. Sanctions for violations of academic dishonesty can include but are not limited to a failing grade on an assignment, a failing grade for the course, suspension from school, or expulsion from the university. Evangel’s policy on academic integrity, as published in the Student Handbook, appears in the section IX. University Policies: Academic Integrity.

Accommodation Statement

Evangel University is committed to equal educational opportunities for students with disabilities in accordance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the American with Disabilities Act as amended (ADA). Academic Support, a division of the Center for Student Success, is the office designated by Evangel University to review disability documentation, determine reasonable accommodations, and develop plans for the provision of such accommodations.

If you have already established accommodations through Academic Support and receive accommodation memos, please meet with me to discuss the provisions of those accommodations as soon as possible (accommodations are not retroactive). If you have not yet established accommodations, but have a disability or health condition (permanent or temporary) that may have some impact on your work in this class and for which you may require accommodations, you are welcome to contact Academic Support staff in the Center for Student Success (ZM-208; 417-865-2815 x.8215) so that accommodations can be arranged. See the Disability and Academic Accommodations Handbook for further information on the accommodations process.

Inclusive Language

The Assemblies of God Theological Seminary employs inclusive language for human beings in both verbal and written communication. This commitment to equality and community is rooted in the biblical revelation of God’s will to form one united people, including men and women from every nation, people, tongue, and tribe (Rev 7:7-9). In regard to biblical texts, the integrity of the original expressions and the names of God should be respected. Students must use inclusive language in all assignments.
Electronic Devices in the Classroom
It is expected that electronic devices will be used during class to support the students’ learning. Any use of technology that substantially degrades the learning environment or promotes dishonesty or illegal activities is prohibited.

Cell phones should only be used for academic purposes during class. It is not permissible to answer cell phones or engage in text messaging while class is in session. Should an emergency situation arise that requires you to use your cell phone, please make the professor aware of the circumstances.

AGTS (GMD) RUBRIC FOR THE EVALUATION OF THE QUALITY OF STUDENT WRITING

The quality of a student’s writing will be assessed using the following rubric. Each element will be assessed on a 5-point scale where 5 represents superior work, adequate for publishing. A score of 1 would signify that the work requires significant re-writing and a score of 3 reflects adequate, passable quality.

TIPS FOR WRITING BETTER PAPERS

*The principles below should be applied to the preparation of the papers.

TRUISMS

1. Reading and re-reading the instructions aid in the preparation of superior papers.
2. A good research paper requires hard work. Within five minutes or less of reading a paper, a professor can spot poor work.
3. Writing skills improve with more writing; there are no shortcuts.

WHAT PROFESSORS EXPECT IN RESEARCH PAPERS

1. Solid research in primary sources
2. Familiarity and interaction with secondary sources
3. Logical organization
4. Original analytical reflection
5. Integrity in writing
6. Consistency in following the designated style manual (e.g., APA, Turabian, etc.)

WHAT STUDENTS EXPECT OF PROFESSORS

1. Clear instructions about the nature of the paper
2. Explanation of research methodology for the particular area of study
3. A clear rationale for the grade should be provided through comments written on the paper
4. The weight of the grade based first on the content of the paper, secondly on the mechanics.

NOTE: This does not minimize the problem of mechanical errors, typos, etc., because they interfere with the logical argumentation of the paper. If the number of mechanical problems and typos on a paper exceed the number of pages, the grade will likely be reduced by one grade point. This represents a fair approach to grading. If more than one mistake on the average appears on a page, then the paper has been poorly prepared both mechanically and analytically.

GUIDELINES:

1. Before writing, prepare a detailed outline of what you intend to address; this will prevent rambling and guarantee logical development.
2. Somewhere on the first page, a clear statement of purpose needs to be given, one that explains the nature of the paper and what it intends to achieve. The conclusion should then link closely with the statement of purpose.

3. Write in good written, not spoken English. All sentences should be complete and coherent. Most people, especially preachers, write like they talk. (Of course, professors remain immune to such temptations!) This means that redundancies will inevitably appear in the text. While repetition and alliteration may be effective in the pulpit, such devices can be unnecessary and distracting in print. Avoid constant repetitions of proper names (use pronouns), expressions, etc. Also, use adjectives, adverbs and emphasis words (such as “very”) sparingly.

4. After completing the first draft, look carefully through the paper and eliminate unnecessary sentences; continue this approach with later drafts. “What?” you ask, “more than one draft?”

5. Keep a sharp eye on paragraph development. The topic presented in the opening sentence must govern what follows. If a paragraph becomes a collection of several unrelated thoughts (e.g., the last sentence has no connection to the opening sentence), then the logical argumentation has broken down. Furthermore, make certain that the paragraph properly fits into the development of the section.

6. Following the introduction of a person’s name (e.g., Harry Jones), only use their last name and/or pronouns afterward. Do not use the person’s first name in subsequent references; this would imply that you are a personal friend of the person cited.

7. Minimize the use of verbs of being: am, is, are, were, and being. Regular active verbs make stronger sentences.

8. If in doubt about a long sentence construction, break into two or more sentences.

9. How should you refer to yourself in the paper? I suggest the occasional use of the pronoun “I.” Referring to yourself as “this writer” or “this author” or “he or she who scribeth this paper” appears awkward in my estimation. At the same time, avoid using the first person plural (“we,” “us,” “our”) and the second person singular and plural (“you”). Refer to others in the third person singular or plural. Consistency avoids confusion and keeps the reader on course.

10. Use direct quotations sparingly. A direct quotation should only be used when a source says something of such importance that the reader would be deprived by not being aware of it. The frequent use of direct quotations and especially block quotations indicates that the writer has not adequately digested the material; long or frequent quotations then serve as “stuffers” in the text.

11. Documentation: How many references numbers should be used? How many sources listed in a bibliography? Arbitrary numbers for these questions represent an artificial methodology, irrelevant at the graduate level. Review the rationale for references. Use the best sources, the number of which will vary with any given paper.

12. The bibliography should be strongly represented in the references notes. Avoid “stuffing” the bibliography with little used resources.

13. Beware of plagiarism. A safe rule of thumb is that only three to five words from a source may be used without quotation marks and a reference number. Plagiarism is the theft of resources written by other people.

14. Use headings, as well as sub-headings (if necessary). Do not use “chapters”; those would be for theses and dissertations.

15. Proofread the paper carefully and by all means use a spell-check. Have someone else—“THE HONEST FRIEND”—or several people read the paper to look for typos, mechanical errors, and especially for clarity and logical development. Learn from their suggestions, but don’t accept them uncritically.

16. THOU SHALT NOT (1) justify the right margin; (2) use large or very small fonts.
17. Gender inclusive language should always be used except when referring to the members of the Trinity.
